Toyota Tsusho Corporation Reports Earnings for the Three Months to June 30, 2008

Nagoya, Japan; July 30, 2008—Toyota Tsusho Corporation (TSE: 8015) announced net sales of 1,928.1 billion yen for the first three months of the fiscal year ending March 31, 2009 (April 1 – June 30, 2008), and net income of 18.863 billion yen, or 53.74 yen per share.

Consolidated Results of Operations

During the first quarter, the Japanese economy experienced a slowdown as domestic demand slumped due to the decline in corporate earnings stemming from the jump in natural resource prices as well as the dip in real income due to the rising prices of goods. Although strong economic growth in emerging countries protected the global economy from a sharp slowdown, the slowdown continued because of the subprime mortgage crisis in the U.S., surging crude oil and other natural resource prices, and climbing food prices.

Amid this environment, net sales for the Toyota Tsusho Group in the first quarter amounted to 1,928.1 billion yen. Operating income totaled 35.747 billion yen, while ordinary income amounted to 41.409 billion yen. Net income after income tax for the quarter was 18.863 billion yen.

Segment Information

Metals

Net sales for the segment totaled 601.7 billion yen. In the steel sheet, bars, and tubes business, volume increased due to an increase in market activity and firm demand from the auto industry, both in Japan and overseas. In the steel raw materials business, business expanded at on-site recycling companies in the U.K. and Hokkaido Prefecture, Japan. Business also expanded in the nonferrous metals business, and an aluminum melting company was established in Hokkaido.

Machinery & Electronics

Net sales for the segment totaled 394.9 billion yen. In the machinery business and the information and electronics business, volume was generally firm, although some delays in capital investment were observed. In the supply of parts for overseas automotive production, although business was affected by the decline in automobile production in the U.S. and Europe, growth was maintained due to increased production in other regions, particularly China and Southeast Asia.

Automotive

Net sales for the segment totaled 242.1 billion yen. This was the result of firm sales in resource-rich countries and emerging countries. In addition, we expanded our dealership network in resource-rich regions including China, Central Asia, and Russia.

Energy & Chemicals

Net sales for the segment totaled 464.8 billion yen. In the chemicals and synthetic resin business, we enjoyed steady volumes in resins for automobiles and home appliances as well as in raw chemical materials. In the energy and plant business, volume grew on the back of increased sales of crude oil and petrochemical products. In the plant export business, multiple power plant orders were received from Egypt.

Produce & Foodstuffs

Net sales for the segment totaled 103.7 billion yen. In the feed grain business, volume was firm due to efforts to provide a steady supply as feed grain prices remained high. In the foodstuffs area, the Chinese bread-making business began delivering products to local Japanese supermarkets.

Consumer Products, Services & Materials

Net sales for the segment totaled 86.9 billion yen. In the senior citizen-related business, we named the 60-and-above age group the "Harvest Age," and we made investments to bolster the nursing care equipment business. These investments included the acquisition of all of the shares of Gutt Rehabilitation, Ltd., a company that sells nursing care products.

Consolidated Financial Condition

Total assets increased 107.8 billion yen from March 31, 2008, to 2.71 trillion yen. This was primarily attributable to a combined 82.0 billion yen increase in trade notes and accounts receivable and inventories as well as a 35.8 billion yen increase in property and equipment. Total net assets increased 22.6 billion yen from March 31, 2008, to 662.3 billion yen as a result of net income for the quarter and other factors.

Outlook for the Fiscal Year Ending March 31, 2009

No changes have been made to the outlook for consolidated operating results for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2009, as announced on April 25, 2008. Because the Company manages operating results on an annual basis, an outlook for interim operating results for the 6-month period ending September 30, 2008, in not included.
